Terms of Reference for a Council Working Group to design and guide engagement with IUCN Members on the impacts of the CoVID-19 pandemic to inform IUCN's response in the CoVID/ post-CoVID context

Background

Our world is facing a great challenge. The ongoing pandemic brings death to people, economic disruptions to our societies, heightened stress between countries and more calls for stronger borders, more nationalism, more regulations, and less international cooperation. It also overshadows the need to act strong, swift, and secure on the needs to support our planetary security.

At this time, it is easy for societies and governments to forget nature - but we must not. The coronavirus pandemic is the greatest crisis our world has faced at a global scale since World War II. The climate and biodiversity crisis will have an even harder impact in the long term.

It is very important that we – IUCN – continue to work towards our vision, “A just world that values and conserves nature”. IUCN is on the road towards our Congress where we will make decisions on our future work. In Marseille we will share ideas, knowledge and inspire each other. We will also discuss the effects of the pandemic and IUCN's role in a post-pandemic world.

On 19 May 2020, after consideration of the recommendation of the Congress Preparatory Committee (CPC) to launch an online discussion with IUCN Members regarding IUCN's response to Covid-19, with a view to preparing a discussion of this issue during the 2020 Congress, the Bureau requested the chairs of FAC, PPC and GCC, with support from the Secretariat, to propose to the Bureau a mechanism (ToR) for the discussion with IUCN Members and Commissions as well as the broader issue of IUCN's response to Covid-19.

Objective

Council appoints a Working Group (WG) to design, guide and oversee engagement with IUCN Members and Commissions on the impacts of the CoVID-19 pandemic to inform IUCN's response in the CoVID/ post-CoVID context.

The WG will:

- 1) Put in place a mechanism for determining, in consultation with the IUCN Membership and Commissions, topics for discussion and how to structure them.
- 2) Develop and oversee an inclusive and interactive online discussion with the IUCN Membership and other relevant partners that takes into account the geographic spread of the IUCN Membership (time zones) and the digital divide between different parts of the world and the diversity among Members.
- 3) Report its findings and proposals for follow-up actions to Council/Bureau, particularly as related to the WCC including the 2021-2024 Programme, new motions, and the financial plan but also on IUCN overall response to the situation.
- 4) Identify high level, strategic and long-term implications for the Union arising from the discussion (i.e. does the pandemic create a need to revise IUCN's mission, vision, or modus operandi in different areas, for example ways of supporting our membership and commissions)

Identifying topics for discussion

1. The mechanism for determining topics for discussion will be inclusive, transparent, open to the participation of all Members and commissions and ensure regional diversity.
2. Options for such a mechanism include:
 - a. A survey to ask Members which topics they see as priorities with a ranking system and then select the top priorities based on this;
 - b. Each region selects topics based on what they consider most relevant from their perspectives.

Online discussions

1. The online engagement with Members will include at least three levels:
 - a. A global Union Portal based online discussion (open to Members, Commission members, National/Regional Committees) around 3 - 5 questions with possibility to upload op-eds and other materials.
 - b. A series of virtual meetings with internal, and as appropriate, external stakeholders in the regions /sub-regions on the basis of the same questions as above in (a) supported by the regional offices.
 - c. Meeting spaces with National and Regional Committees by representatives of council.
2. Summaries of the results are posted in the global online discussion shortly after they happen.

Further guidance for designing and conducting online discussions

The online discussions should:

1. Include and enable dialogue between the components of IUCN – Government and civil society Members, Commissions and Secretariat – on the impacts of Covid-19 pandemic and key responses to be elaborated through sharing information and ideas;
2. Promote dialogues with other sectors (non-members of IUCN) e.g. health sector, agriculture, etc. and the connection to pandemics and developing appropriate nexus for future conservation work

Composition of Working Group

The Working Group will be composed of nine members including 6 from Council (including at least one commission chair) and three Regional representatives

Timeline

1. The Bureau invites members of Council to express their interest in participating in the WG by 7 August
2. The Bureau invites the Global Group for development of National and Regional Committees to nominate three representatives by 7 August
3. The Bureau decides the members of the WG, to be endorsed by council, taking into account representation of the standing committees, regions and gender, by 10 August
4. The Working Group agrees to a mechanism to ascertain 3-5 topics for discussion by 25 August, to be approved by the Bureau
5. Online discussions are held for 8 weeks from 1 September
6. WG reports findings to Council / Bureau by 15 November and proposes appropriate action
