rights that would undermine the sharing of benefits arising from [and the traceability of] marine genetic resources of areas beyond national jurisdiction.

5. Rationale for the proposal, if any.

This provision could work and leaves space for Parties to work through other international regimes to adopt more clear rules related to intellectual property. However, the Agreement does not specifically name other global treaties, like the CBD or UNFCCC, so to be consistent and future proof it is better to replace the specific reference to WIPO and WTO with “other relevant international agreements”.
