IUCN PRESIDENT RECENT VISIT TO ESARO

March 2019, Nairobi

During their visit, Mr Zhang also visited the IUCN ESARO Regional Office where he attended a staff meeting.

“I recognize the dedication, commitment, and hard work from all staff in ESARO. As president, I would like to express my appreciation to you and to our members for their loyalty and efforts towards conservation. The conservation milestones in the region would have been extremely difficult without your considerable involvement,” said IUCN President Mr. Zhang Xinsheng.

Delivering a statement on behalf of IUCN at the UNEA meeting, the president said: “For the last 70 years, IUCN has delivered nature conservation for sustainable development through an open, innovative culture. A culture that fosters participation from all, including women, youth, and indigenous peoples. Much progress has been made. However, today’s challenges of biodiversity loss, climate change, marine plastics require today’s solutions. New ideas, tools, and business models are vital to protecting the environment on which we depend for our food, our health, and even our identity. IUCN is committed to do its part.”
